Chinook Gets It's Turn

FIRE FIEND PAYS US A VISIT

During the past two or three years most of the towns along this line have been visited by disastrous fires. Chinook's turn came early last Sunday morning,
when Mr J. R. Miller's general store was burnt completely out.
.....

About 11:30 on Saturday night
when Mr. Miller left the store everything was in a perfectly safe condition. About an hour later, Harold Shabino, night clerk at the hotel, was going out for a pail of water, he noticed an unusual quantity of smoke coming from the direction of Miller's store. Going over to investigate he discovered the warehouse—
which joins the main building—was on fire. He quickly gave the alarm, and in a few minutes a great crowd collected to help to fight the fire. The chemical engine and a bucket brigade were soon at work, besides a number hand extinguishers. The warehouse was unusually packed solid with goods, among which the fire had gotten a good hold, and it was difficult to get at it. After trying hard to put out the fire, for as soon as it was put out in one place it broke out in another, the flames finally got into the main building, when the fire soon got out of control. Every effort was then made to save as much of the contents as possible, and it is almost increditable the quantity of goods that was carried from that burning building in ten to fifteen minutes before it became unsafe
to be in the store.
.....

The origin of the fire, at first,
was a mystery, until the door
was found open and two inner drawers and some $500.00 in cash and cheques missing, besides the cash register rifled of $5.00. But why the burglar set the place on fire at the extreme end of the warehouse near the place where he evidently got in and out, is a mystery, unless it was done acci-dently, by dropping a lighted match as he was getting out of the building.

The building was owned by L.
K. Sully of Cereal, and was insured, we understand, for between $1000.00 to $1500.00. The stock was also insured, but Mr. Miller's loss will be about $5000.00 above
the insurance.
.....

There are two things that the citizens have to be thankful for.

U.F.A. Sunday, May 27
OFFICIAL CIRCULAR ADDRESSED TO LOCAL UNIONS BY PRESIDENT WOOD

A year ago I issued the first U. F. A. Sunday circular.
While we have just made a beginning, I feel we have reason to hope that much good will come from this day.
.....

The realization that some thing is fundamentally wrong with our social institutions is growing stronger every day.
People are searching diligently for a philosopher who will guide them in the solution of the problems confronting them. They are saying, "Lo! here is the great leader," or "Lo! there he is." Carl Marx has a host of followers; Henry George perhaps has more. Jesus has great multitudes of followers who believe in Him as the true teacher of individualism, but those who believe He is all-sufficient to solve all the great problems of a confused and perplexed civilization are few;
fortunately this number is growing larger daily.
.....

These problems can never be solved by individualism alone.
Their solution must be forced by co-operative strength of mobilization.
.....

I am more firmly convinced than ever that the church will have to take broader responsibilities than it is now doing.
.....

Is Christ to develop the individuals and Carl Marx mobilize and lead them? Is Christ to hew the stones and Henry George build them into the finished edifice? The hewer will soon be forgotten, while the builder will be remembered as long as the edifice lasts. If Christ cannot mobilize His forces and build true civilization His name will be forgotten in the earth.
.....

Trade is the central influence in human relationships. Man touches his fellowmen more often here than anywhere else, and the touch is more vital than anywhere else. This touch means prosperity and possible happiness, or it means poverty and inevitable misery. Until the problems of trade are solved according to the laws of Christ, His will cannot maintain on earth, and His great prayer cannot be answered. There is enough Christian material in the earth to do this work, but it is ineffective for mobilization,
training and leadership.

Crimes of Germany

Can Never Live Down Disgrace of Her Acts

The history of the war may be forgotten, the terrible stories told by those who witnessed the atrocities committed in Belgium may pass from memory, but the story of Germany's crimes will live forever in the paintings and cartoons of the artists who have depicted them.

Germany never can live down the disgrace of her deeds, for these great cartoons have found permanent places in the picture galleries of Europe. They will hang there as a warning to all who dare to commit a wrong.

Germany has emerged a barbarian through its thin veil of civilization. As long as the great galleries stand, Germany must face the disgrace. Can they ever again be called cultured?

And, while artists of Holland and the United States, as well as those of the entente countries, are picturing the deeds committed in the name of Germany, the world is anxious to prevent a pictorial defense for the Kaiser. This is one phase of the war in which Germany has no defense. And the punishment will continue longer than the lives of those who perpetrated the hideous crimes.—From the Ottawa Free Press.

Britain Awake Long Ago

Every time a new war measure is announced by the British government some one asks, "Is this not like waking up?" It is time we had an end of this nonsense. The country that has recruited over 5,000,000 men; that is meeting daily expenditures of over $200,000,000, and that has revolutionized its entire system of taxation, that sleeping stage years ago. The civilized world is in debt to Great Britain for its existence. The people who only realize now that Great Britain is being taxed to the limit, in their failure to study the war or appreciate the stupendous accomplishments of the greatest of all the democracies.—From the Toronto News.

Hope It Was Timely

Not long after a fire in a town near Boston some children in the Hub held a charity fair, by which $20 was realized. This sum they forwarded to us, to whom the fire had occurred, since he had taken a prominent part in the relief work. Their letter was as follows:

"We have had a fair and made $20. We are sending it to you. Please give it to the fire sufferers. Yours truly, etc. P.S.—We hope the suffering is not all over."—Buffalo News.

Outside Civilization's Rule

The End of the House of Hohenzollern Is Clearly in Sight

In the interests of the German state and people it is necessary that some other than a Hohenzollern should rule the empire. The House of Hohenzollern has a dark record of crimes against the public peace, against the rights and the freedom of other states. Its plots are deep, its falsehoods numerous, its intrigues long, its perfidy great.

The cussed and perfidious nature of the house of the world have other and more profitable occupations than watching forever the machinations of the Hohenzollerns, and guarding themselves against deadly proofs from that quarter. And the innumerable, inexplicable will fervently hope, the last, imperial representative of that house will be put to the sword.

MORE CONTROL FOR SELECTION OF IMMIGRANTS NOW RECOMMENDED

DOMINIONS' ROYAL COMMISSION MAKES REPORT

It is Also Regarded as Vital to the Empire that the Natural Resources be Safeguarded from any Pressure Which a Foreign Power Might Exercise to Secure Control of Raw Materials

The final report of the Dominions' Royal Commission sets forth numerous conclusions and recommendations which it brings to the notice of the imperial and dominions' governments.

It declares, regarding the scientific development of natural resources, that if the vital Empire be placed in a position of being compelled to resist any pressure which a foreign power or a group of powers, could exercise in time of peace or war through control of essential raw materials and commodities.

It recommends that a complete survey should accordingly be made of the relation between empire production and empire requirements of such materials.

With reference to such materials and commodities as are mainly produced and controlled outside of the Empire, such as cotton, petroleum, nitrates and potash, the most careful inquiry is needed regarding the possibility of new sources of supply or of finding new markets for the Empire. Survey and investigation in this respect should be entrusted to the new imperial development board, which should work through existing departments of the empire, and self-governing dominions, and local scientific departments and the Imperial Institute for India, the Crown colonies and protectorates.

The report recommends that greater power by imperial and overseas grants, the creation of an imperial immigration authority for the purpose of supervision, and a further consultative board to effect a proper co-operation between the central authority and the activities of the dominions.

It urges the need of providing adequate capital, training and assistance for settlers, soldier-settlers and for greater attention to the emigration of women from Great Britain and increasing the same.

A proposal is made for the interchange of school teachers between the United Kingdom and the dominions.

The report emphasizes the necessity of cheap, speedy and efficient transports and recommends larger vessels and larger harbors. For this improvement the schemes should be supervised by the imperial development board.

The commission suggests improved mail facilities, quicker routes and some measure of government control over shipping companies regarding freights.

Cheaper cabling is regarded as an urgent necessity. The report states that the Dominion Royal Commission favors the state control of imperial wires and the commissioners recommend state acquisition.

A considerable reduction in press rates is proposed to enable a wide dissemination of imperial news.

Dealing with communications, the commissioners advocate the speeding up of the intelligence system, the holding of periodic inter-imperial exhibitions and the unification of legislative practices, the patents, trade marks and companies.

Regarding the creation of an imperial development board, the commissioners express the view that existing organizations are not adequate and propose a joint initiative by the empire as a whole, such as the scientific development of Empire resources, the deepening of harbors on a co-ordinated plan, cable service and the preparation of maps, trade marks and companies.

The following representation upon it is suggested:

The United Kingdom, India, the Crown colonies and protectorates, seven South Africa, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and Newfoundland, one each.

A French soldier had been shot in the leg and was taken to the hospital. For some time the surgeon probed and searched the wound, until at last the sufferer demanded impatiently what he was doing. "I am trying to find the bullet," was the reply. "What stupid fool," said the patient. "Why, have it in my pocket!"

Wealth of the Czar

He Retires in Very Good Financial Circumstances

According to most opinions the private fortune of Nicholas, ex-Czar of Russia, is estimated at about $200,000,000.

His wealth is largely invested in fixed funds and real estate. His holdings on this score are said to be extensive. It is understood that he owns $5,000,000 of the Pennsylvania railroad's stocks. His name does not appear in the lists of that corporation's stockholders for obvious reasons, instead some nominal owners appear.

Most of the Czar's cash is deposited in the Bank of England. The estimate of his deposits there are numerous. The sum may be fifty million pounds sterling.

The ex-Czar also owns about 680,000,000 acres of land in Russia. Most of Russia's mineral resources are his property. Into the Czar's private treasury, according to the gold and silver output is annually contributed.

It is not known whether the Czar will be allowed to retire from Russia. There are some who believe that the transfer of his financial resources to those of Russia will be one of the first steps of the new Russian ministry. It would naturally affect the exchange of the ruble tremendously. It would make Russia financially stronger than she even.

If the ex-Czar's American stocks were confiscated they would be lost. It is pointed out, for the purchase of munitions and other material here for the Russian army. That would immediately raise the ruble exchange to nearly the normal standard.

Italy and the War

Brevy Bearing the Burden Created by War Times

With rolls and famine bread entirely prohibited two months and three sweetmeats days a week, only one meat course allowed at hotels and restaurants, butter no longer prohibitory, vegetables at prohibitive prices, coffee and tea sometimes mounting to $45 and $50 the highest price as they affect the houses and families of the people of Italy will be understood. And yet Italy has its bread.

A spirit of thrift has encompassed the imagination and formed the habits of the people. In 1914 the national savings amounted to $151,000,000, they reached last year—despite dire poverty—$200,000,000 per annum to the country—not less than $60,000,000 per month.

The saving has been effected by the "fortunes of war." But the woolen and cotton industries have prospered greatly, and all those whom were made for or could be adapted to war work have been absorbed by Italy, so far as possible, though still continually speaking more than she had ever done before, and found, after due experiment, that she could not easily produce the articles she required, could do so at an economic price which had at first seemed doubtful.

Unemployment naturally ceased to be a problem, and a notable symptom was, as stated, the increase in savings of the country.

People Who Distrust Banks Found in Britain

People who distrust banks are, as a rule, singularly lacking in ingenuity in the devising of hiding-places—a loose board in the floor, or a hole in the thatch, or the heartstone beloved of madmen, seeming to offer sufficient safety.

A year or two ago a woman confessed in court that she had buried her savings beneath her mother's tombstone and a slab, while since it was discovered that she had buried a hoarder of hoarders, a common made a secure hiding-place, for some children found 100 pounds in one of the Crimean cannon at Liverpool. England a bar containing 70 sovereigns was found in a hole in the floor of a Peel Park, Bradford, and a parcel of jewellry was discovered in a cannon at the fort near Shoreham.

A parcel of bank notes was found once in a nest of birds in a darkened room. The bird wants her nest in a secluded place. The straw in the nest should be removed frequently, and the nest should be well cleaned and dried and not at least once a year.—Ex. Dept., N. Dakota Agricultural College.

Bagdad Taken at The Right Time

British Prestige Regained in Far East by Justice to Mohammedans

Of the four holy cities of the east, three, Mecca, Medina and Bagdad, are now in the hands of the allies, and any day may come the announcement that the fourth of them, Jerusalem, has been captured. The allies have essential interest to Canadians, as the army under Sir Archibald Murray which is operating in Palestine is made up of Australians, New Zealanders, Canadians and the pick of the Indian troops. They have been training in Egypt for the past two years. We may be sure that when the war ends none of these cities will be restored to Turkey, and that the British will have won a great victory along the empire under the Pharaohs. Mecca is the greatest of the sacred cities, according to the Moslems, and a fall of Bagdad will make a greater attraction therefor. In the east the Moslems did the news that the grand sheriff of Mecca had declared the independence of the city from Turkish authority and had raised an army to make good his declaration.

There is no doubt that the British at Kut was really a blessing in disguise, although not many of us will consider the surrender of Townshend a gallant little army a master for their religion and a master for the Moslems. Mr. Owen says that if Bagdad had fallen at the time when Townshend was within a day's march of the result might have been different. Two years ago the taking of the city by a Christian army might well have been regarded as a victory for the theory which held that the Moslems were not fewer than 20,000,000. Moreover, the British army could not be eliminated. The present theory seems to be that Britain can be eliminated before America's strength can be made to count.

There is no doubt that the Turks were at least their co-religionists, and in certain parts of Bagdad neither Christian nor Jew is allowed to set his house there. If a superior technique is displayed, it will be used for the Moslems. They have learned more about Britain than millions of them knew before. They have learned of the role that Britain played in the liberation of Mexico and America in the past year. The Grand Sheriff of Mecca they regard as the chief prophet of their faith, the appointed guardian of Mecca, their holy of holies. They have seen how the British have established the independence of Arabia as a kingdom. They have heard, as Mr. Owen says, of the great honor conferred upon the Caph when he travelled to Mecca. The Test of Victory

That Side Will Win Which Can Endure Longest and Suffer Most

Liberty has never advanced through the argument of philosophers, but through the devotion and self-sacrifice of its believers. It is as the victor in a hundred fights that it has come down to us. Again and again it has proved its invincibility by the sacrifice it has been called to command. Lives have been paid the toll for every step of its advance. And if in the present struggle the toll is heavier than ever before, it is because the cause is greater, and from the nationalistic contests, the controversy has passed to international. Our race has often been English by birth; it is called upon today to be European, a world-wide liberty.

Moreover, its enemy is of like proportions. It would seem as if the Prussian state had been destined to set apart from the beginning to rally the forces of tyranny for their last encounter. By sheer force, the superior, not only of her military genius, but of her intellectual defence of tyranny as a principle, Prussia has gathered under her leadership all the elements of the destructive elements of tyranny which exist in Europe. It is the little states that breed the big states. Palestine is one example. Greece another; a third is Russia. First, she stood for religious liberty, the second for intellectual liberty, the third for the tyrannical ideal complete in action and in thought.

And this has caused her to win as in every other case she will win which can endure longest and suffer most. In this world everything sooner or later fetches its price. Life like the price of trifles we might for a few pence buy, but which is outbid and gives up. There never has been any other way than this, Is liberty the more valuable than tyranny to men, then it can endure and suffer more. It is precisely because the tyrant despises the nature of liberty, who thinks of it not so much as an end in itself but as a process of becoming the germen as it were of a constant growth kept in motion by the power of his slaves, which is outbid and gives up. These who estimate all the problems of life—it is these who, estimating its influence on the centuries to come, least grudge the cost we are now paying for it. We do not grow weary of people who dilate on the sanctity of life and the horror of death and suffering take a too gross and material view of the human lot. We are privileged to die for the truth—from the London Times.

The Beginning of Wheat

Oldest Cultivated Plant Has Followed Man to the Furthest Corners of the Earth

The geographical origin of wheat as such is not known, but it became a cultivated plant has never been definitely determined. It is believed, however, that its cultivation is much older than the written history of man, and that it was probably first cultivated in Western Asia.

Hunt states that "very ancient monuments much older than the Hebrew scriptures show the cultivation of wheat estates." The earliest record of wheat, however, is in the Sumerian list of the earth's earliest cultures, and the earliest wheat culture of Sumerian variety of wheat as early as the stone age. The Chinese were growing wheat 2700 B.C.

Do Candolle believed the Euphrates valley was the principal habitation of wheat in prehistoric times. He says: "The area (in Western Asia) may have extended toward the Tigris and the Euphrates, up to the east and west of Western Asia wheat had probably never existed as a cultivated plant anterior to all known civilization."

Coldfetor, discussing the present range of wheat, says: "The sub-species of wheat have a range of cultivation throughout the world, both as to elevation and latitude, greater than that of any other cereal, probably, except rice. That of any other crop except than rice is grown at higher latitudes and in some instances at higher elevation. Wheat is now cultivated in the coldest countries—in the tropics of the Philippines, equatorial Africa, Brazil and Costa Rica, and near to the Arctic Circle in Europe and Northern America." Seven years ago (1911) British East Africa began to supply wheat almost sufficient for its own needs, and the crop also did well in Uganda and Nigeria. The native people have learned to plant wheat in the arid crevices north of Yakutsk and in Siberia. In Finland and Scandinavia even winter wheat reaches over sixty degrees north. At Fort Verde, million, almost 600 million bushels of wheat, a flour mill has been in operation for many years. Oats, however, thrives near Archangel; while Rumania and Fife mature grain in 100 days at Fairbanks, Alaska, two degrees from the Arctic Circle."

Petrified Bird's Nest

Petrified bird's eggs have been found on several occasions, but as far as can be ascertained, it remained for a Washington State man to find the petrified nest in which the eggs were originally laid. The nest was imbedded in a rock formation in a cliff of the Grand Canyon, five hundred feet above the river. The nest had been the nest of a song bird about the size of a robin, and only one side of it—what is not the darker side—must have been exposed to the air. It is impossible to estimate how many centuries ago the eggs were laid.

"Matrimony is a curious thing," said the Globe-Trotter. "In some of the Oriental countries, the old sedentary husband must sit in the shade until the wife comes home."

"It is curious," agreed the Mere Man. "In this country she seldom sees him afterward."

Rasputin the Monk A Sinister Character

Lived a Notorious Life in Russian Court Circles Using Religion as a Cloak

The life story of Rasputin, the notorious Russian monk, who was recently assassinated, is far stranger than fiction. In all the reports of the revolution his name appears frequently.

This humble peasant's sinister influence at the Russian court and in society had become a serious menace to the welfare of Russia, and our gallant allies will rid of such unsavory character.

For several years Rasputin, had been a power behind the Czar's throne. He acquired a great hold on the Czarina, and those who stood in his way or were unprofitably mysteriously disappeared to exile.

The son of a small farmer at Tobolsk, he was raised in the church by Neklyuk, but the peasant of the large village nicknamed him Gregory Rasputin, which was freely translated as "Gregory the Rake."

He lived a peasant's life till he was eighteen, when he was seized by a quasi-religious man, who became a lay monk, wandering from monastery to monastery. In 1909, by the introduction to high ecclesiastical circles, he was received into the monastic order.

His hypostatic influence over women gave rise to many scandals, and he was accused of being a sexual libertine.

He was a religious man, who would only trouble Rasputin, who would only describe in unblushing detail the amazing attentions he had extorted from the members of all classes.

His reputation as a sexual magnet led him to the Czar, who received him at the Czar's love, who received him at the Czar's love.

Rasputin at once became a favorite at court, and enjoyed the patronage of the Czarina, and the Czar's sons, although the studious health of the Czarovitch to his interest.

In reality this monk's religion was nothing but a cloak, he was a charlatan and impostor, who was a master of intrigue by certain treacherous cliques, made many enemies, and was bitterly attacked in the Duma and the press, but the favor which he enjoyed in aristocratic circles.

At last his conduct became unbearable, and he was exiled to his native Tobolsk. Before leaving he warned the Czarina that disaster would happen. Threats later followed him, and he was sent to the Niagara district other hardy seed, and from this has sprung the Ontario variegated of today, a variety which has given as satisfactory results in Ontario as Grinnell has given in Minnesota.

But what a story! From Persia to Greece, from northern Africa to Spain to Germany on one side and Mexico on the other, and from Germany to Ontario and from Germany to Ontario and Minnesota.

We wish to thank all the many friends and helpers who worked so hard to save our stock in the recent fire.

We are now located in the old Woodruff Store where we will have full stock by the end of the week.

Several bank cheques were lost and we would ask those people who cheques cashed or who paid for goods by cheque Friday or Saturday to come and see us. Payment of some of these cheques has been stopped.

Chinook Breezes

Mr. and Mrs. Peck are spending the winter at Viscount, Sask.

Died, on May 1st, at Calgary, Robert McCool, aged 23 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McCool of Youngstown.

Mr. U. S. Peterson has just purchased the O. J. Hocart half section, a mile or two south. The deal was put through by Mr. Oxley.

Owing to the fire on Sunday morning, when so many were broken of their rest, the annual church parade of the local Lodge of the I.O.O.F. was not so well attended by the brethren as usual but there was a good congregation.

Mr. J. H. Acheson, the "Rawleigh Man," met with a severe accident on Wednesday evening, when coming into Chinook, that might have proved serious. He had occasion to get out of his rig to talk to a farmer. When getting in again, he only got hold of one of the lines, and his team started off on a walk. In making a grab for the other line the horses started on a run. Mr. Acheson made a spring to get into the rig, when the animals made a sharp curve and he was thrown off, at the same time a large tin in the rig rolled off and struck him a blow on his head. Now the "Rawleigh Man" looks as though he had just returned from the trenches.

To the Electors of the Constituency of Acadia, Ladies and Gentlemen,

At the recent convention of the Liberal-Conservative Association held at Cereal, I received the honor of being nominated as candidate to contest the riding at the next Provincial election.

I ask for your confidence, vote and influence, staunchly believing as I do, that the time has arrived for a change of Government in the interest of the electors of the constituency and the Province as a whole.

In these columns, from now until the coming election, I will endeavor to outline a few of the many questions that are of vital interest to the electors of Acadia particularly, and ask for your consideration of the problems as they appear from time to time.

Yours for your interests,
E. GORDON JONAH

Chinook Gets It's Turn

First, that there was no wind during the fire; second, that the burning building was fairly well isolated. Had the fire been on the opposite side of the street nothing could have saved half the village being wiped out.

Great credit is due to the citizens—and some strangers, too—for the strenuous efforts made to save the buildings and contents, and it was only by hard work that the blacksmith shop at the rear and the other surrounding buildings were saved, for had these buildings caught fire it would, no doubt, have been disastrous to the village.

Both Mrs. I. W. Deman, and Mr. Carter at the hotel, distributed hot coffee to the crowd, which very thoughtful act was much appreciated, as it was a very cold day.

Most of us hope one of those Zeppis will come along this way pretty soon.

If you pay as you go you may not go very far, but you will arrive safely.

To the Public!

I take this opportunity to thank all those who so willingly assisted in keeping the fire, which destroyed Miller's store, under control. Had it not been for the way everybody worked my store with others would surely have been burned.

Words can hardly express how grateful I feel.
Hoping to merit a continuance of your patronage.

I beg to remain,

Yours truly,
